ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

Sunday Services Appropriate to the Anniversary.

Large Gathering of People in the Bishop's Cathedral.

Interesting Addresses by Rev. Edward Sullivan and Bishop Whipple.

The celebration of St. George's Day by the Britons of Chicago was a brilliant success, and in point of numbers and enthusiasm, it surpassed the most sanguine expectations of the managers. The Cathedral was crowded for beyond its comfortable seating capacity by 4 o'clock, and the doors were closed, though the hymn "Oh, Praise the Lord of Heaven," after which the evening service was to be read by Rev. Clinton Locke, the presiding genius of the day, was not performed until 5 o'clock. Many of the English residents of the city, who had been expecting with the usual enthusiasm of their race to participate in the festivities, were unable to get into the building, and, consequently, the hymn, "God of our fathers, by whose hand, Thy people still are led," was then sung.

ADDRESS BY REV. E. SULLIVAN.

Rev. Edward Sullivan, being introduced, said he delegate from the 1621 "Mary Jane" to the modern and 50 "John the Son of Christ." Here Adelaide, he said, they had gathered the children whereby men were predestinated to be saved or damned, to endless existence. The Bible, he declared, was the only book which could be called inspired. It was the only book which could be called the word of God. It was the only book which could be called the word of God. It was the only book which could be called the word of God
